Dear Debbie,

NexGen has been able to work with us to implement Salesforce in a very detailed manner. Your model for engaging and understanding customer needs and putting them through to requirements and design is very good. You have also been very flexible when moving through development as requirements get refined or adjusted. Your development model also offers a good value to the customer in terms of how they manage their resources to meet the development needs.

Our particular project included

- Configuration of Custom Objects for services provided and financial assistance offered,
- Admin Training with
- Design of environment

NexGen' s experience in CRM also allows you to offer good best practices, user adoption ideas and overall guidance in any implementation or development. We happily recommend NexGen Consultants as a Salesforce partner.

Sincerely,

Jill Settlemyre
